Conſtantinople, February 19.

A Few Days ago one Polycarry a Native of Cephalonia and Phyſician to her Czarish Majeſty, arrived here with Letters from the Czar to the Grand Signior and Vizier, to notify the Peace with Sweden: He at firſt demanded to deliver in Perſon his Letter to the Grand Signior, and to have his Expences defrayed by the Port; but both theſe Demands being refuſed, he was contented to accompany the Muſcovite Reſident when he delivered the Czar's Letters to the Vizier: The ſaid Polycarry is gone back with the Grand Signior's Anſwer, which was directed in the uſual Stile, to the Czar of Muſcovy, without the Title of Emperour, which was a Point the Muſcovite Reſident had preſſed very earneſtly, but without Succeſs. A Perſian Ambaſſadour is arrived here, and has had his publick Audiences: His Buſineſs is, to return the Compliments made by the Turkiſh Ambaſſadour ſent lately to Perſia, on the Circumciſion of the Grand Signior's Son, and to cultivate a good Underſtanding between the two Empires, eſpecially at this Juncture, when there is a Rebellion in Perſia. The Perſians are the more complaiſant to the Turks at this Time, leſt the Grand Signior ſhould give Succour to the Chief of the Rebels in Perſia, on Account of his being of the Mahometan Sect. The Port has received Advice, that this Rebel has ſacked a City called Schamachia ſituate on the Caſpian Sea and belonging to the King of Perſia, where was the chief Settlement of the Muſcovites who Trade into Perſia, and that he has not only plundered the Muſcovite Merchants of their Effects to the Value of 100000 Pound Sterling, but has alſo put about 200 of them to the Sword. The Muſcovite Reſident here having complained of this Hoſtility to the Port, the Vizier has anſwered that he was no Subject nor Friend of the Grand Signior's, and that the Port had nothing to do with him.

Madrid, March 30. The Duke de St. Simon, one of the French Ambaſſadours, having had his Audience of Leave of the King on the 21ſt Inſtant, and been preſent at the inveſting the Marqueſs de Maulevrier his Colleague in the Embaſſy with the Enſigns of the Order of the Golden Fleece on the 23d, ſet out the 24th on his Return to Paris. M. de Chavigny having preſented his Credential Letters, as Miniſter of France, it is expected the Marqueſs de Maulevrier will ſoon begin his Journey for Paris. On the 28th Orders were ſent to Don Patricio Laules at Paris, to take upon him the Character of his Catholick Majeſty's Ambaſſadour there [illegible] the Duke d'Oſſuna.
